7. Proceed with updating and submitting your answers until all the questions are marked as submitted.
8. You may then change the questions filter to show the remaining unanswered questions
9. Since these remaining items would be the questions that retained the correct answers that were selected from the previous cycle, it will automatically allow you to go straight to the summary of the current attempt.

The attempt summary will list the results of all of the updated responses, as well as indicators for those questions that were not changed and were already retaining the correct answer selection from the last attempt.

The quiz navigation list on the left will also show the results of the submissions for questions that were retaken and updated, and those that were already carried over and unchanged from the last attempt.

You can select the “Return to attempt” button to change any of the answers for those that are still marked as unanswered, or click “Submit all and finish” button to process your answers.
